MARSHALL SAYS GO SLOW ON WATER ACT

Marshall Plan of Water Conservation Gives No Endorsement

Responding to the request of many civic bodies and chambers of commerce that he define his stand on the proposed Water and Power Act, Colonel Robert B. Marshall, father of the Marshall plan of water conservation, has just come out flatly against the measure.

"If I had three and a half million votes to cast I would cast them all 'no' on the Water and Power Act," he declared at a meeting called by the chamber of commerce of Porterville. Later he made several speeches before interested organizations. He said in part:

"The Water and Power Act has nothing on earth to do with the Marshall Plan. You may take five hundred dollars and spend it in a haphazard way without coordination in getting it together and you have lost the Marshall plan. That is what we have been doing in California for the past 50 years. The Marshall plan is merely a coordinated plan. It is necessary and important that you hearken back to the last legislature, the result of which was an order for an appropriation of $200,000 or more to see if what Marshall said was true and I am going to tell you a little secret that what Marshall said was found to be better than he said.

"Go slow. Go very slow and think it over before you tie up with the water and power proposition on the strength of the things these dealers tell you about until you find out what you have and what you are going to do with it. Wait for the report of the commission and then after you are through digesting the report base your opinion on the facts of what we have found and see what we can do.

The biggest thing before the people of the state is the saving and using of its waters. I am not going to tell you how to vote as you know your business better than I do, but can't we wait until the state has received the report of its investigation committee? Wait until we can go into the legislature and say here is what we can and here is what we can't do, and let us trust our legislators to do what is right, and I believe whoever the legislature may be it will get together and pass the necessary laws to carry out plans or to carry investigation further."
